It is recommended to re-oil 1-2 times a year using standard furniture oil (e.g. Tung oil). Firstly carry out

The sanding process as described above and then dampen a lint free cloth with the furniture oil and rub into the wood in the direction of the grain (always trial on an unseen face first to ensure the colour is acceptable).

Several coats may be applied to the surface to increase the quality of finish and give more protection to the timber. Note: After oiling it may be necessary to ventilate the room in order to remove any smell of oil.

In very dry environments it may be necessary to re-oil the furniture more frequently

The surface may appear to become rough and dry over time – this is normal and can easily be treated by lightly sanding the surface using fine sandpaper (i.e. no. 320 grit sand paper) in the direction of the grain
